

SOW Review

Subcontractor Statement of Work and Contract Review

Prior to signing any contract or statement of work (SOW) it should be reviewed by your legal team. While legal experts understand legalities that will help in court, they are not delivery experts who can determine whether a SOW will provide you with the product that you anticipate, need, and desire. This review will analyze the scope, methodology, deliverables and proposed cost to identify any areas that point to weaknesses in the ability to deliver or misalignment in intentions.

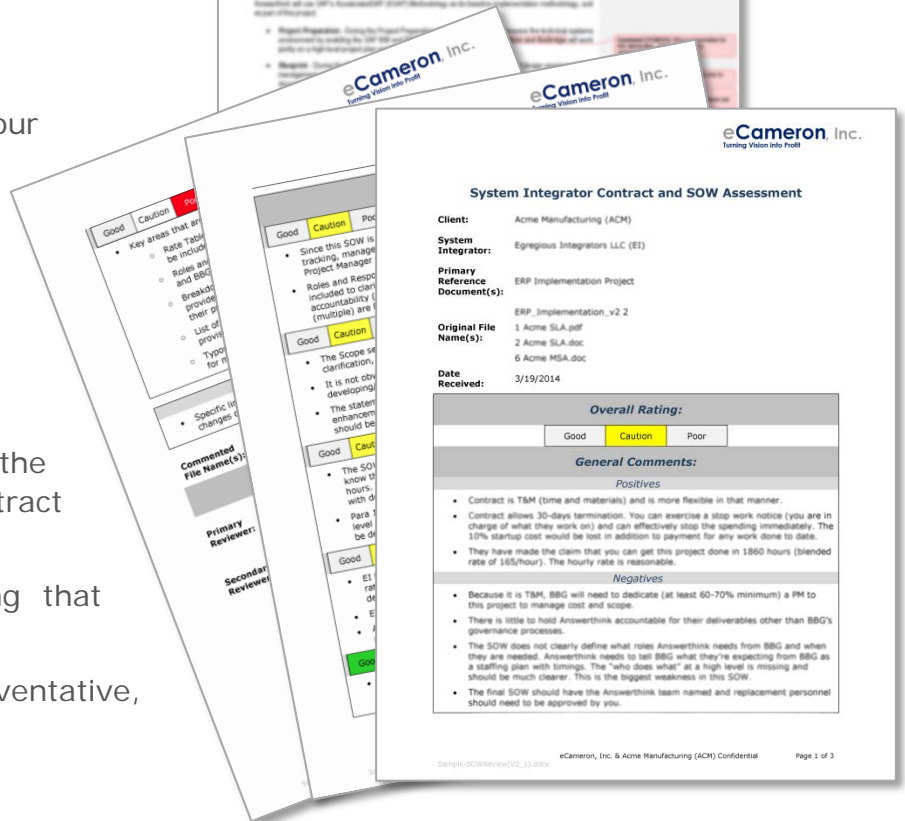

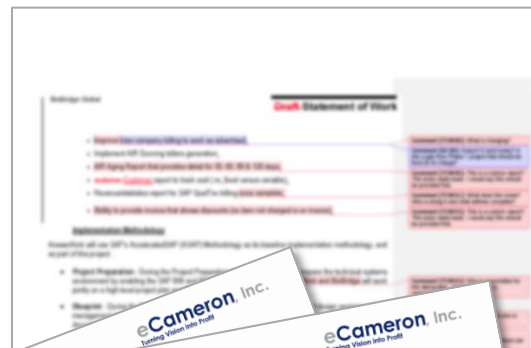

Benefits:

- Demystify the SOW.
- Get more value from your subcontractor.
- Minimize risk and vulnerability.
- Save money by avoiding risk.
- Eliminate ambiguity.
- Understand and resolve the gaps between the contract and SOW.
- Identify what is missing that should be added.
- Proactive, Preventative, Productive.

What It Consists Of:

Review of one SOW and related contractual documents to assess where the documents need to be improved. The result is an executable SOW. In addition to a general assessment, the SOW will be evaluated in six specific areas:

- Accountability.
- Scope Definition and Controls.

Assurance • Experience • Trust

VISION to VALUE

Assurance • Experience • Trust

- Schedule and Tracking.
- Cost and Cost Controls.
- Quality Processes.
- Completeness.

This will be accomplished through document reviews and up to four interviews with key personnel in your organization.

What You Get:

You will receive a risk assessment report that identifies the overall condition of the SOW within days of providing documents for review. The report uses familiar red/yellow/ green indicators and includes a narrative assessment for each of the six areas. In addition, the SOW will be red lined with suggested improvements using Word's change tracking function.

How It Works:

The Subcontractor Statement of Work and Contract Review is a service as a product (SaaS) offering that is performed remotely to minimize cost. You simply provide us with a purchase order number and the appropriate documents (normally a master service agreement and the statement of work). Two of our executive consultants will review the document and highlight errors, issues, risks, and make suggestions on how the document can be improved and clarified.
